Summary

I am a Postdoctoral Scholar (Bioinformatics) focused on developing computational tools/pipelines and analyzing complex multi-omics data to gain deeper insights into biological systems. My expertise spans proteogenomics, high-throughput next generation omics, and microbiome research, where I apply bioinformatics methods to uncover novel biological mechanisms, identify biomarkers, and enhance our understanding of disease processes.

My research integrates genomic, transcriptomic, and proteomic data. I am currently advancing single-cell omics research. I am also passionate about leveraging data-driven approaches to address complex biological questions, applying both analytical rigor and creativity to my work.
